1st XI Hockey Report vs KES

Dylan Coombes (Director of Hockey & 1st XI coach)

A warm winters day greeted everyone on Pape's as the the last winter fixture against King Edward VII School took place on Saturday. Maritzburg College won the previous encounter between the two sides by two goals to one in a close contest and the expectation was that it would be another close match.

Maritzburg College however had other plans and put in one of their best performances of the year. College's intentions were clear in their clinical and sharp approach to everything they did and also had the lions share of the possession throughout the match on Saturday. College would take just short of 3 minutes to open their account on the day when some fine interplay between Adrian Greaves and Angelo Walstroon won College their first penalty corner. The penalty corner execution whilst far from perfect proved effective when Gregory Will pushed the ball home after slight confusion at the top of the circle.

Just two minutes later and College would recycle and transfer the ball superbly to the left flank finding Mpumelelo Maphumulo in space. With a brilliant backhand pass into the circle he would find Angelo Walstroon, having found excellent space, who would take the tally to two with a brilliant deflection goal.

College would go on to dominate proceedings but would take until the 26th minute to further extend their lead when Keegan Kleiner found himself in the circle and rolled the ball to a free M. Maphumulo. Maphumulo received across his body and struck the ball well into the bottom left hand corner with the scoreboard reading 3-0. The first half barrage from College was however not done yet when Angelo Walstroon again received in good space in the circle. With some really calm and composed play he clinically protected the ball, turned and fired on his forehand into the bottom right corner which would see the half out with the College 4-0 up.

The second half started and the College outfit would continue the dominant play creating many more opportunities. In the 9th minute of the second half College would earn themselves a penalty corner. Russell Stainbank and Andre Bradford would combine beautifully in what has become a go to call for College this year. With a perfect pass from Stainbank, Bradford clinically deflected home on the backhand to have the final say and 5-0 on the day.

College could easily have built on this lead but could afford to let their foot off after a fine clinical and dominant display to see a great season close on Pape's.

Rugby 1st XV report against KES

Tim Orchard (1st team coach)

Maritzburg College played host not only to King Edwards but also their Old Boys Reunion this past weekend. Maritzburg College have had an upswing in form of late narrowly going down to Affies in a titanic struggle on Goldstones and performing a remarkable smash and grab up in Pretoria against Pretoria Boys High, looked to end the season on a high in front of an expectant crowd.

The match started at a frenetic pace with both sides looking to play an expansive game much to the delight of the large crowd that was present on Saturday. KES drew first blood in the match with a well worked try after a sustained period of College pressure who simply could not get over the line. College scored next after through the boot of Jacques van der Walt who slotted a penalty kick to bring College within four points. The rest of the first half fell into an uneasy rhythm where both sides attacked with great gusto only to cough the ball up at the most inopportune moment with the try line beckoning. College hearts were broken right at the death of the first half when an aimless kick from the College backs was gathered up, recycled and with a neat little exhibition between the KES backline scored in the left hand corner to extend their lead to 14-3 once the try was converted.

After the halftime break College looked to claw themselves back into the match in front of an expectant crowd who were egging them on with great fervour. The second half largely resembled the first with both sides banging away at each other without any reward. This eventually was broken when College caught the KES defence napping when a penalty was taken quickly by College with KES expecting a shot a goal. The ball was recycled through a number of phases until Wandile Hlophe showed a clean pair of heels to barge over and score. The try was duly converted making the score 14-10 and College were now firmly back in the game but time was running out as there was only ten minutes left on the clock. A memorable comeback was not to be however as KES hit back with a converted try of their own to push the deficit to eleven points with the score now 21-10. The restart was hit too long gifting KES with a midfield scrum from which to attack. They gladly accepted the opportunity with relish and promptly scored an extremely well worked try, attacking a College defence that inexplicably stuttered at the most inopportune moment making the score now 28-10 with College looking dead and buried. KES looked punish a now distraught College team but the ball was spilt and College now had one final opportunity to score. From the resulting scrum the ball was shifted to Nkondlo Radebe who showed great attacking prowess to race away from his own 22m area to score a memorable individual try which ultimately was the final moment of the match. The kick was converted by Van der Walt to bring an end to proceedings with the scoreboard reading 28-17. KES were jubilant whilst the College team were left ruing a number of opportunities that were spurned with the try line beckoning.
